

European Academic Libraries at work: let's build capacity. Together.

Paola Corti, Celine Peignen, Monique Schoutsen,
Kinga Zajac, Kristopher Meen

UniLibNSD Conference, 7 October 2021

European Network
of Open Education
Librarians

Image: Building a human tower, Vlad Socaciu,
<https://www.flickr.com/photos/vladu/263000086/>, CC BY-NC-SA 2.0

European Network of Open Education
Librarians
(ENOEL)

The ENOEL was founded in 2018
80 members
22 countries

In ENOEL we work together.
In ENOEL we share.
In ENOEL we collaborate.

Under the Spotlight

"ENOEL practitioners under the spotlight" webinar series

ENOEL members guide us through their personal journeys with OE. It is a space for network members to ask questions, to get to know each other better and learn from one another.

20 Sept 2021

ENOEL Members sharing their expertise

2 episodes so far :

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UC5WtI726waSHbBgCbaHNWrQ/playlists>

OE Drops

“OA Drops” short videos series... or taking a break
Very short videos explaining the basics of Open Education, to accompany newcomers while drinking a coffee, commuting, walking or taking a pause.

Work in progress. OA Drops will be collected in a playlist on ENOEL's Youtube channel

OE Champions

“OA Champions” series of interviews

Key OE advocates and actors discuss the importance of Open Education and share their experiences with facilitating the creation of Open Educational Resources.

18 August 2021

Work in progress. OA Champions videos will be collected in a playlist on ENOEL's Youtube channel and added to the European Open Access Champions site <https://openscholarchampions.eu/openaccess/>

Open Education Benefits

ENOEL members are creating tools (Twitter cards, slides, leaflets) and resources to be reused, adopted, adapted by the large audience (not only librarians) to advocate for open and to disseminate the UNESCO OER Recommendation.

OE Benefits

Benefits of Open Education for students

- Ensure enduring access: Students will be able to access resources even after they have completed their course.
- Support inclusion: OER can be adapted to reflect students' profiles and scenarios, addressing inclusion needs at different levels.
- Promote diversification of learning: OER are accessible from every place at any time, repeatedly (and don't underestimate the value of repetition!), and from a variety of devices and formats.
- Promote lifelong learning: OER are available to everyone of all ages, anytime anyone wants to learn something or go back to something to refresh the memory of it.
- Save costs: High price tags may lead students to use older versions of certain publications; with OER this is not an issue.

Work in progress. OE benefits tools will be shared with the community as easily adaptable files.

OE learning path for EU librarians

Open Education Learning path for EU librarians

Why "EU"? Because we need to adapt some resources to our scenarios and take into account the language related issues properly.

Expected output: a curated list of resources plus - in time - an adaptation of those that need to be referred to specific EU needs and requirements.

Work in progress. OE learning path resources will be shared with the community as easily adaptable files.

OE Resources from/for the network

Open Education Resources from/for the Network
A Wakelet page with categories to identify resources coming from the Network and resources useful for Network members, but also for anyone interested!

Work in progress. OE Resources from/for the Network will be added continuously in time

Challenges

Collaboration comes with challenges of its own

- Not all members are comfortable with taking action at the same time
- nor are they all always ready to actively contribute
- or confident in formulating their thoughts in English as a second language.

These challenges can only be overcome through a welcoming and patient approach and the attitude to listen and include.

The ENOEL demonstrates this. Together we:

- share ideas, problems, experiences and skills
- negotiate along the way on what to do and how
- pool efforts to solve common goals and challenges (busy but THERE!)

...and we enjoy our regular monthly meetings!

ENOEL is growing.
Let's build capacity! Together.

Join us!

European OE librarians, join us!
Help us represent ENTIRE Europe.

EUROPE
FOR OPEN EDUCATION!

JOIN ENOEL: <https://tinyurl.com/SPARCEUENOEL>

More on ENOEL: <https://tinyurl.com/SPARCEUENOEL>

Thank you!

Paola Corti, SPARC Europe
pcorti@sparceurope.org

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

European Network
of Open Education
Librarians

Image: Building a human tower, Vlad Socaci,
<https://www.flickr.com/photos/vladu/263000086/>, CC BY-NC-SA 2.0

